World Climate Change Conference

The General Assembly,

Acknowledging that change in the earth's climate and its adverse effects are a common concern of humankind,

Noting that the global nature of climate change calls for the widest possible cooperation,

Welcoming the ongoing work in the United Nations system on climate change, in particular within the framework of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change which is the key instrument for addressing this global concern,

Referring to relevant decisions of the World Summit on Sustainable Development[1] and to the Delhi Ministerial Declaration on Climate Change and Sustainable Development, adopted by the Conference of the Parties to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change at its eighth session, held at New Delhi from 23 October to 1 November 2002,

Recognizing with concern the findings of the third assessment report of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change[2] which confirms that significant cuts in global emissions will be necessary to meet the ultimate objective of the Framework Convention, and recognizing the ongoing consideration by the Subsidiary Body for Scientific and Technological Advice of the implications of the report,

Reaffirming the Plan of Implementation of the World Summit on Sustainable Development,[3] in which States that have ratified the Kyoto Protocol[4] strongly urge States that have not yet done so to ratify it in a timely manner,

Recognizing the need for strengthening scientific and technological capabilities and networks for the exchange of scientific data and information,

Stressing that the World Climate Change Conference will be supportive of the Framework Convention process,

Noting the importance of broad participation in this process by Governments, parliaments, international and national organizations, the scientific community, the private sector and other representatives of civil society,

1. Welcomes the initiative of the Russian Federation to convene the World Climate Change Conference at Moscow from 29 September to 3 October 2003 as a forum aimed at exchanging views among the scientific community, Governments, parliaments, international and national organizations, the private sector and other representatives of civil society and at facilitating the implementation of existing policies related to climate change;

2. Encourages Member States and relevant organizations and institutions of the United Nations system, as well as other international and national organizations, parliaments, the scientific community, the private sector and other representatives of civil society to participate actively in the Conference;

3. Invites Member States, the United Nations system and all other actors to take advantage of the Conference in order to increase awareness of the importance of international efforts to address climate change.
